JDate's Rabbi of the Month

Mazel Tov,
Rabbi Jason A. Miller
of Congregation T'chiyah in Oak Park, Michigan

Submitted by JDater® Rebecca Salama

My name is Rebecca Salama, formerly Rebecca Abel back when I signed up for JDate in November of 2000. My screen name was Rebecca1678 and shortly after joining the site, I received an email from Seidnarb (Brandeis, his alma mater, spelled backwards) that I initially dismissed, thinking the guy was not my type. Thankfully, I checked him out again a week later and decided it would be rude not to respond. Well thank goodness I did because we were married three years later.

I want to nominate Rabbi Jason Miller from Congregation T'Chiyah in Oak Park, Michigan because of his integral role in our meeting and his eventual participation in our wedding. He is a young, energetic rabbi who has been an avid supporter of JDate since the very beginning. Back in the fall of 2000, it was Rabbi Miller, who has been a friend and rabbi to my husband for many years, who nudged my husband to check out JDate. Many other couples have the same story, with Rabbi Miller playing an integral role in their eventual marriage. Of the 40+ weddings he has officiated, about half of them, 22 to be exact, have been JDate marriages. I think these numbers alone are a testament to Rabbi Miller's passion for the site and belief in its ability to create Jewish marriages.

“JDate is the spark that single Jews need to find their Bashert. There's truly someone out there for everyone.”
– Rabbi Jason A. Miller

Rabbi Jason A. Miller has given sermons about JDate and has written articles and blog posts about the site as well. In addition, he and his wife also have done a little matchmaking themselves by successfully pairing three couples.
